TEMPE, Ariz. – With 2:22 remaining in the 2011 Insight Bowl, a skycam malfunction took place to temporarily delay the action.

The following is footage taken from the Iowa sidelines when the skycam breaks and falls on the field. It nearly hits Iowa senior wide receiver Marvin McNutt, who said after the game part of the lining did scratch his arm.

“At first, I was like, ‘What is that,’ McNutt said. “It was just pulling me, and I didn’t want to keep going with it.”
